Navigating your options at The Wellness Room.

Start with the location, not a package label

Full Arms and Half Arms are menu names. They do not explain how your own tattoo relates to the area you have in mind.

A small design near the wrist and a larger design farther up an arm raise fundamentally different clinical questions.

How does the location of my tattoo affect the area I am asking about?

Published Area Prices

Half Arms: $55 per session

Full Arms: $100 per session

Full Legs: $120 per session

These are published area prices, not a personalized quote or confirmation that a particular area can be treated. Do not infer an exclusion, a smaller-area discount, or an approved plan from the menu alone.

Individual Assessment

- Discussing the specific tattoo location.
- Defining the exact boundaries of the requested area.
- Addressing your personal questions and precautions.
- Determining who would assess the request and perform any proposed service.

Put the tattoo question on the table early

I have a tattoo on the area I want to discuss for laser hair removal. Can we review its location before talking about a package?

You do not need to arrive with your own technical solution. Questions about whether treatment is appropriate, which areas can be considered, and any precautions belong with the qualified clinician.

Ask what the recommendation actually covers

| | |
|---|---|
| ✓ | What area are we discussing? |
| ✓ | What questions about the tattoo still need review? |
| ✓ | Does this quote describe the exact scope we discussed? |

After the discussion, there should be a clear distinction between your original request and anything the clinician proposes. A price for a named area should not leave you guessing about its boundaries. If the plan is not yet defined, an advertised package is not a substitute for that answer.

Keep hair removal and tattoo removal separate

Strictly Individualized Care: This guidance does not establish your eligibility, recommend covering a tattoo, choose a device, or suggest at-home workarounds. No result or treatment plan is promised before a consultation.
